

LAW AND PHILOSOPHY

Our Law and Philosophy division, in the Faculty of Arts and Humanities, is defined by outstanding teaching, research and student satisfaction rates.

100% of our research impact in Law and 100% of our research impact and environment in Philosophy was classed as world leading or internationally excellent in the Research Excellence Framework 2021.

RESEARCH COURSES

Research excellence underpins all we do. As part of our research community, you will contribute innovative, practical and applied solutions to the challenges facing society today.

We offer research options, including PhDs, in the following areas:

- Private/commercial law
- Public law
- Competition law
- Intellectual property law
- Legal philosophy
- Alternative dispute resolution
- Energy law
- Environmental law
- Human rights
- Police and judicial cooperation in the EU
- Socio-legal aspects of policing
- Scottish criminal law
- Compliance (anti-money laundering, counter-terrorist financing and trafficking in human beings)
- Legal, moral and political philosophy
- Mind and knowledge – philosophy of cognitive science
- Philosophy of logic and language
- History of analytic philosophy
- Epistemology
- Rationality and normativity

Many of our courses offer multiple start dates, please check course webpages for details.

Full-time course

Part-time course

To find out more about identifying a supervisor and submitting a research proposal, visit: stir.ac.uk/research

HUMAN RIGHTS AND DIPLOMACY

Campus based
MSc, PG Dip, PG Cert

This is the only Human Rights and Diplomacy Masters course in the world, taught in partnership with the leading training entity of the UN, the United Nations Institute for Training and Research (UNITAR).

You will learn about the practice and the theory of human rights law and politics, the UN human rights institutions, their history and their philosophical foundations. You will be taught by top human rights researchers and will be given practical training from experienced UN personnel in negotiating, drafting documents, and learning how to make a difference.

Additionally, in the final three months of the course, you will have the opportunity to apply for an internship, pursue projects with human rights organisations or tackle a traditional dissertation.

We're proud to hold a 88% overall student satisfaction rating for Human Rights and Diplomacy in the Postgraduate Taught Experience Survey (PTES) 2022.

CORE MODULES

- Preparation for Independent Working
- Human Rights Practice
- Human Rights Theory
- Approaches to Human Rights
- Skills for the International Human Rights Institutions
- Dissertation or Internship or Professional Project

Check course web page for optional modules

CAREER PROSPECTS

Our Masters course gives you a solid foundation to work either in the public or private sector – including the UN agencies, civil service, NGOs and business organisations – or to further academic research through a PhD.

As part of our strong focus on employability, this course includes a study visit to Geneva for all students, to observe the Human Rights Council in session.

Course Starts: January

INTERNATIONAL ENERGY AND ENVIRONMENTAL LAW

Campus based
LLM, PG Dip, PG Cert

The regulation of energy and environment is one of the most hotly debated topics of our generation.

The aim of this course is to provide intellectually challenging, multi-disciplinary education at an advanced level in current issues relating to energy and the environment. With an emphasis on current and future challenges faced by society, including energy system transition, environmental protection, climate change and sustainable development, the integrated course addresses these concerns and seeks potential solutions. This Masters will enable you to develop the skills and expertise you need to make a lasting and positive impact on the planet and prepare you for, or enhance, a career in this area.

The course is designed to enable both law and non-law graduates to become well trained and equipped with the skills and knowledge to aid the future regulation of the energy and environment sectors, or to further your research interests in this area.

We're proud to hold a 100% overall student satisfaction for LLM International Energy and Environmental Law in the Postgraduate Taught Experience Survey (PTES) 2022.

CORE MODULES

- International Law and Sustainable Development
- Energy Law and Policy
- Environmental Law
- Training for Masters in the Arts and Humanities (LLM)
- Dissertation

Check course web page for optional modules

CAREER PROSPECTS

Law companies are opening their own specialised energy and environmental law divisions. As a result, there's a great demand for employees who have a specialised legal knowledge in energy and environmental law.

You will be well placed to take up a career in legal companies, the energy industry, regulatory bodies and international organisations.

You can benefit from attending conferences. Previous conferences include "Connecting with a low-carbon future" and "Renewables after Brexit".

Course Starts: September

PHILOSOPHY

Campus based
MLitt, PG Dip, PG Cert

Our Masters course provides you with an excellent postgraduate foundation in Philosophy and a sound basis for philosophical research.

We offer modules in four fundamental areas of philosophy: logic and metaphysics, moral and political philosophy, epistemology and mind, and history of philosophy.

The MLitt Philosophy is a collaboration between the University of Stirling and the University of St Andrews, which together form Scotland's premier centre for Philosophy and one of the top institutions in the UK. This Masters was ranked the third best Philosophy course in the UK in the 2021/22 Philosophical Gourmet Report.

This Masters is enhanced by a busy programme of conferences, workshops and visiting speakers from universities in the UK and abroad.

CORE MODULES

- Research Methods
- Dissertation

Check course web page for optional modules

CAREER PROSPECTS

The general training in research and analytical thinking as part of this course prepares you for a wide range of careers in various areas of public policy, public administration and governance. Many of our graduates have gone on to study Philosophy at PhD level, and a large number of graduates have secured permanent university teaching positions.

Our students are active participants in both the Arché Philosophical Research Centre and the Centre for Ethics, Philosophy and Public Affairs based at the University of St Andrews.

Course Starts: September

